OLD SOLDIERS BOYCOTTED.

GRAND army veterans throughout the country have been roused to action by the discharge of old soldiers from the government service in Washington. On the heels of dismissals of veterans who had served the government faithfully in the Washington city postoffice for years, came President Wilson's declaration of the invitation to deliver the Memorial Day address at Arlington National cemetery, where so many thousands of the "boys of '61" lie sleeping.

President Wilson's last-minute recall of his declaration, after Speaker Clark, his political enemy, had agreed to make the speech, has fallen very short of satisfying the old soldiers. Evidently, they are up in arms with all their old fighting blood aroused over these two slaps in the faces of the Union veterans.

The feeling in Grand Army circles over what the veterans regard as scant courtesy on the part of President Wilson on Memorial Day and the dismissals of veterans from the Washington postoffice would seem to be growing greater instead of smaller. Washington Gardner, of Albany, New York, the national commander of the Grand Army, is in Washington in support of Dr. J. K. Gleason, commander of the department of the Potomac, who has made a valiant fight for the reinstatement of the veterans dismissed. Word has been flashed to all the old veterans of the country to hold themselves in readiness to defend themselves from further attacks of the Democratic administration.

In spite of protests to President Wilson, old veterans have been told to go, and threatened with dismissal if they did not resign. The treatment accorded these old men, who have given faithful service, has brought a flood of telegrams for senators and representatives in congress, and the end is not yet. Some reinstatements, out of fear of the political effect of these dismissals, may be expected, but veterans say that will not satisfy the affront which was given the Grand Army of the Republic.

INDUSTRY PARALYZED.

A MILLION DOLLARS a month is what the pig iron industry in this country is losing, according to the report of John A. Penton, of Cleveland, secretary of the American Pig Iron association. Many furnaces have shut down, he says, and plants are in the hands of receivers. Thousands of employees have suffered a cut in wages, due to this condition, and more reductions are to follow. "We have now confronting us one more hardship," says Mr. Penton in his report, "in the shape of the knowledge that foreign countries, owing to the abolition of our tariff and because of their lower cost of production are going to be able to ship, and are even right now shipping and arranging to ship, quantities of foreign pig iron into our country when the whole industry here is operating at a loss of millions of dollars a month."

The pig iron industry is not the only example of the effect of the Democratic tariff law. That the unemployed are holding the present Democratic administration responsible for present conditions is shown by the overwhelming Republican victory in the seventh New Jersey congressional district, not long ago. In that district, Republicans made the tariff the issue and the Democrats accepted it. Evidently the unemployed of that district hold President Wilson and the administration's supporters responsible for bad industrial conditions, for the president's popularity in his home state could not withstand opposition to the administration's policies.

There seems to be considerable trouble in selecting the right man to build Mr. Mills' houses at the San Francisco and San Diego fairs. It appears that one of the bidders was a member of the last legislature and is thereby entitled to the job, but not having bid as low as some of the others is causing trouble. It will be necessary to eliminate the lower bidders by some way or means, so that the member of the legislature can get his share of the $140,000.—Carson News.

According to the admissions of the Nevada Exposition board there was collusion between California and Nevada contractors to secure the building of the state edifice in San Francisco. A general housecleaning would not be harmful at this time.

Boston women are planning an Adamless Eden; however, they'll want it Adamless Adamless after they get it.—Washington Post.

The local Democratic convention commended the administration for redeeming the platform pledge relating to the tariff. It failed.
